THE DANCE.

THE ROOM.

The following diagram is a ground plan of the room in which the dances are supposed to take place:—

A diagram, showing the initial disposition of the dancers, is printed at the head of the notation of each dance, and placed so that its four sides correspond with the four sides of the room as depicted in the above plan. That is, the upper and lower sides of the diagram represent, respectively, the right and left walls of the room; its left and right sides the top and bottom.

In Playford's time, the top of the room was called the Presence, alluding to the dais upon which the spectators were seated. The expression facing the Presence means, therefore, facing up, i.e., toward the top of the room; while back to the Presence means facing down, toward the bottom of the room.

TECHNICAL TERMS AND SYMBOLS.

h.r. = a hop on to the right foot ; l.r. = a hop on to the left foot.

The Set or the General Set is the area occupied or enclosed by the dancers in any given dance-formation.

A Longways dance is one in which the performers take partners and stand in two parallel lines, the men on one side opposite and facing their partners on the other, those on the men's side facing the right wall, those on the women's side the left wall.

The disposition of the dancers in a longways dance is said to be proper when the men and women are on their own sides ; and improper when the men are on the women's side or the women on the men's.

A Progressive dance consists of the repetition for an indefinite number of times of a series of movements, called the Complete Figure, each repetition being performed by the dancers in changed positions. The performance of each Complete Figure is called a Round.

A Progressive movement or figure is one the performance of which leaves the dancers relatively in different positions.

A neutral dancer is one who, in a progressive dance, is passive during the performance of a Round.

In dances or figures in which two couples only are engaged, the terms contrary woman and contrary man are used to denote the woman or man other than the partner.

When two dancers standing side by side are directed to take hands they are to join inside hands : that is, the right hand of one with the left hand of the other, if the two face the same way ; and right hands or left hands, if they face in opposite directions. When they are directed to take, or give, right or left hands, they are to join right with right, or left with left.

To cross hands the man takes the right and left hands of the woman with his right and left hands respectively, the right hands being held above the left.

To pass by the right is to pass right shoulder to right shoulder; by the left, left shoulder to left shoulder.

When two dancers pass each other they should always, unless otherwise directed, pass each other by the right.

When a woman's path crosses that of a man's, the man should allow the woman to pass first and in front of him.

When one dancer is directed to lead another, the two join right or left hands according as the second dancer stands on the right or left hand of the leader.

To cast off is to turn outward and dance outside the General Set.

To cast up or cast down is to turn outward and move up or down outside the General Set.

To fall is to dance backwards; to lead, or move, is to dance forwards.

To make a half-turn is to turn through half a circle and face in the opposite direction; to make a whole-turn is to make a complete revolution.

The terms clockwise and counter-clockwise are self-explanatory and refer to the direction of circular movements.

PROGRESSIVE DANCES.

THE PROGRESSIVE LONGWAYS DANCE.

There are two methods of progression in a Longways Dance—the whole-set and the minor-set.

In the whole-set dance the progression is effected by the transference in every Round of the top couple from the top to the bottom of the General Set, the rest of the couples moving up one place.

The minor-set dance is one in which the Complete Figure in each Round is performed simultaneously by subsidiary sets or groups of two (duple) or three (triple) adjacent couples.

The effect of every performance of the Complete Figure is to change the positions of the couples in each minor-set. In a duple minor-set dance the two couples change places, in a triple minor-set the two upper couples. This necessitates a rearrangement of the minor-sets in the following Round, and this is effected by each top couple forming a new minor-set with the adjacent couple or couples below. In this way the top couple of each minor-set will move down the Set one place every Round; while the lower couple of the duple minor-set, and the second couple in the triple minor set, will each move up one place. The position of the third couple in the triple minor-set will be unaffected, but in the following Round it will, as second couple, move up one place. As the dance proceeds, therefore, every couple will move from one end of the Set to the other, the top couples down, the rest up. In a duple minor-set dance each couple on reaching either end of the General Set becomes neutral in the following Round. In a triple minor-set each couple upon reaching the top of the General Set remains neutral during the two following Rounds; and on reaching the bottom for one Round only. It should be added that when the top couple of a triple minor-set dance reaches the last place but one it must, in the succeeding Round, dance the progressive portion of the Complete Figure with the last couple or change places with them.*

* For further and more detailed information respecting the Progressive Longways Dance see The Country Dance Book, Part I.

THE MUSIC.

The several strains of each dance-air will be marked in the music-book and in the notations by means of capital letters, A, B, C, etc. When a strain is played more than once in a Part it will be marked A1, B1, C1, etc., on its first performance, and A2, B2, C2, A3, B3, etc., in subsequent repetitions.

It will be found that many of the dances in this collection are divided into two or more Parts. John Essex quaintly but aptly likened these divisions to "the several verses of songs upon the same tune."

In non-progressive dances, the division is made merely for the sake of clearness in description; the Parts are intended to follow on without pause.

When, however, a progressive movement occurs in one or other of the figures of a Part, that Part must be repeated as often as the dancers decree. The usual practice is to repeat the Part until the leader has returned to his original place.

Progressive figures will be marked as such in the notation; while the Parts in which they occur will be headed "Whole-Set," "Duple Minor-Set," etc., according to the nature of the progression.

MOTION IN THE DANCE.

The Country Dance is pre-eminently a figure dance, depending in the main for its expressiveness upon the weaving of patterned, concerted evolutions rather than upon intricate steps or elaborate body-movements. That the steps in the Country Dance should be few in number and technically simple is, therefore, natural enough. For complicated foot-work is obviously incompatible with that free, easy, yet controlled, movement needed in the execution of intricate figures. In a figure-dance such as we are now considering, the way in which the dancer moves from place to place is obviously of far greater importance than the steps, and to this therefore we will first turn our attention. An analysis of the way in which the traditional folk-dancer moves shows that it is based upon two main principles:—

- (1.) The weight of the body in motion must always be supported wholly on one foot or the other, and never carried on both feet at the same moment. From this it follows that the transition from step to step, i.e., the transference of the weight from one foot to the other, must always be effected by spring, high enough to raise the body off the ground.
- (2.) The motive force, although derived in part from this foot-spring, is chiefly due to the action of gravity, brought into play by the inclination of the body from the vertical. The dancer in motion is always in unstable equilibrium, regulating both the speed and the direction of his movement by varying the poise and balance of his body. When moving along the straight, for instance, his body will be poised either in front of his feet or behind them, according as his movement is forward or backward; and laterally when moving along a curved track.

The function of the legs is to support the body rather than to help to move it forward, the actual motion being set up, regulated, and directed by the sway and balance of the body, as in skating. The body, it should be pointed out, cannot be used in this way, that is to set up and regulate motion, unless it is carried essentially in line from head to foot, without bend at the neck or at the waist, or sag at the knees.

The advantages of this way of moving are obvious. Motion is started and kept up with the least expenditure of muscular energy; it can be regulated, both as to speed and direction, with the greatest ease and nicety; above all, its expressive value is high in that it brings the whole body, and not the legs alone, into play. This last consideration is a weighty one. The strongest argument against "leg-dancing" is not merely that it is ugly, or that it involves superfluous muscular effort, but that the legs, being primarily concerned and almost wholly occupied in supporting and preserving the equilibrium of the body, cannot effectively be employed for expressive or any other purpose.

THE STEPS.

The following general directions apply to the execution of all the steps used in the Country Dance:—

- (1.) Country Dance steps always fall on the main divisions of the bar, i.e., on each of the two beats in duple measure ($\frac{2}{2}$ or $\frac{6}{8}$), and of the three beats in triple-measure ($\frac{3}{2}$ or $\frac{9}{8}$). In the case of a compound step, that is, one that comprises more than one movement, the accented movement should fall on the beat.
- (2.) The step should fall on the ball of the foot, not on the toe, with the heel off, but close to, the ground.
- (3.) The feet should be held straight and parallel, neither turned out nor in at the ankle.
- (4.) The legs should never be straddled, but held close together. Nor again should they be extended more than is absolutely necessary; the spring should as far as possible take the place of the stride.

- (5.) The jar caused by the impact of the feet on the floor should be absorbed mainly by the ankle-joint, and very little or not at all by the knees. The knee should be bent as little as possible, so little that the supporting leg should appear to be straight, i.e., in one line from hip to ankle.
- (6.) All unnecessary movements should be suppressed, e.g., kicking up the heels, fussing with the feet, raising the knees, etc.

THE RUNNING-STEP.

This is the normal Country Dance step. It is an ordinary running-step, executed neatly and lightly, in accordance with the above instructions.

In the notation this will be marked :—

r.s. (running-step).

THE WALKING-STEP.

This is a modified form of the running-step, in which the spring, though present, is scarcely noticeable.

In the notation this will be marked :—

w.s. (walking-step).

SKIPPING-STEP.

This is the usual step-and-hop on alternate feet. The accent is on the step, which must fall, therefore, on the beat. Care should be taken to prevent the skipping-step from degenerating into a double-hop, the two feet taking the ground together, instead of in succession. The hop should fall on the last quarter, or the last third, of the beat according as the latter is simple or compound, thus:—

				OR
$\frac{6}{8}$	♪ r.	♪ h.r.	♪ l.		♪ h.l.	r.	♪ h.r.	♪ l.		♪ h.l.

In the notation this will be marked:—
sk.s. (skipping-step).

SLIPPING-STEP.

This is a series of springs, made sideways, off alternate feet, the major spring being on to the outside foot, i.e., the left when going to the left and the right when going to the right. Although the legs are thus alternately opening and closing, scissor-fashion, the motion is effected almost wholly by the spring, not the straddle; the legs, therefore, should be separated as little as possible. The free foot should not be allowed to scrape the ground.

The accent falls on the foot on to which the major spring is made, that is, the left or right, according to the direction of motion, thus:—

---------------	---------	---------	---------	--	---------	----	---------	---------	--	---------

Moving to the right.

---------------	---------	---------	---------	--	---------	----	---------	---------	--	---------

In the notation this will be marked :—
sl.s. (slipping-step).

THE DOUBLE-HOP.

This is sometimes, though very rarely, used in ring movements as an alternative to the slipping-step. It is a variation of the Slip, in which the feet, instead of taking the ground separately one after the other, alight together a few inches apart.

THE SINGLE.

Playford defines the Single as “two steps, closing the feet.” Technically this may be interpreted in the following way: on the first beat of the bar a spring is made, forward or sideways, on to one foot, say the right; the left foot is then brought up beside it, the weight wholly or in part momentarily supported upon it, and, on the second beat of the bar, transferred to the right foot in position.

This step is subject to various modifications, partly individual, but more often arising from the character of the dance or phrase in which the step occurs. Many dancers, for instance, never allow the foot upon which the initial spring is made (i.e., the right foot in the above description) to leave the ground when the left foot is brought up beside it; but instead, rise on the toes of both feet on the intermediate accent, and then on the second beat sink back on to the ball of the right foot.

THE DOUBLE.

This is defined in The English Dancing Master as “four steps forward or backward closing the feet,” i.e., four running or walking steps, the last of which is made in position (that is, beside the other foot), the weight being supported either on the one foot or on both feet, according to circumstances.

THE TURN SINGLE.

The dancer makes a whole turn on his axis, clockwise (unless otherwise directed), taking four (in triple measure, three or six) low springing steps off alternate feet, beginning with the right foot. The body must be held erect, and the turn regulated so that the dancer completes the circle and regains his original position on the last step.

In the notations specific steps are in some cases prescribed, but these are not to be regarded as obligatory. When no directions are given the choice of step must be determined by the performers themselves. In such cases dancers should remember (1) that the running-step is the normal Country Dance step, and that it is only in comparatively few cases that any other step can be effectively substituted for it; (2) that slipping and skipping-steps, being compound steps, occupy more time in their execution than the "simple" running-step, and should not therefore be used except in dances of slow or moderate time; (3) that it is not necessary for every dancer to use the same step at the same time; nor, again, is it necessary (4) that a single figure should always be danced to one step throughout—the arbitrary change of step in the course of a movement is not only permissible, but is in many cases to be commended.

ARMS AND HANDS.

Nearly all the prescribed arm-movements in the Country Dance relate to the joining of hands. Of ornamental or fanciful movements there are none, nor any of formal design that are devised—like many of the arm-movements of the Morris Dance—to assist the actions of the dancer. Nevertheless, perhaps for this reason, the carriage and manipulation of the hands and arms form a very characteristic feature of the Country Dance.

It may be taken as a general rule that when the arms are not in active use, i.e., when they are not being directly employed for some specific purpose, they should be allowed to swing quietly and loosely by the side. This involves complete relaxation of the muscles that control the shoulder, elbow, and wrist joints, and the capacity to resist sympathetic, involuntary tension in other muscles.

The dancer may sometimes find it necessary to make use of his arms to maintain his balance, e.g., to throw out the outside arm when moving swiftly round a sharp curve. This is permissible, provided that such movements are made only when really necessary, simply, and without exaggeration.

All the prescribed hand and arm movements in the Country Dance have a definite purpose, and in their execution no more is required of the dancer than that he should fulfil this purpose effectively and in the simplest and most direct way. For instance, in "leading" the taking of hands is not a mere formality; the dancer should actually lead—that is, support his partner, guide and regulate her movement.

THE JOINING OF HANDS.

In linking right hand with right, or left with left, the hands are held sideways (i.e., in a vertical plane), thumbs uppermost, and brought lightly together, not clenched, the four fingers of each hand resting on the palm of the other, and the thumb pressing on the knuckle of the middle finger. The hands should be joined in this manner in leading, in handing in the Hey, and in the Turn-with-one-hand.

In joining inside hands, that is, right hand with left, or left hand with right, e.g., in rings, the Turn, the Pousette, etc., the man holds his hand palm upward, the woman places her hand in his, and the fingers are clasped as before.

When two men or two women join inside hands, it is suggested that the dancer having the lower number should always take the man's position (i.e., give his hand palm upward).

MOVEMENTS OF COURTESY.

THE HONOUR

This is a formal obeisance made by partners to one another at the conclusion, and sometimes in the course, of the dance. The man bows, head erect, making a slight forward inclination of the body from the hips; the woman, placing her left foot behind the right, makes a quick downward and upward movement by bending and straightening the knees.

The honour should always be made in rhythm with the music and, if possible, in conjunction with some corresponding movement of the feet. The exact way in which this is done depends upon circumstances. The usual method is to place the right foot on the ground twelve inches or so to the side say, on the first beat of the bar, and to bring up the left foot beside it—or, in the case of the woman, behind it—on the following beat when the obeisance is made.

THE SET.

This is a movement of courtesy, addressed by one dancer to another, or more frequently by two dancers to each other simultaneously. It consists of a single to the right sideways, followed by a single to the left back to position (two bars).

THE SET-AND-HONOUR.

This is a lengthened form of the Set occupying four instead of two bars. On the first beat of the first bar the right foot is placed on the ground sideways to the right; on the first beat of the second bar the left foot is brought up beside it and the honour paid in the manner already explained (two bars). These movements are then repeated in the reverse direction, the left foot being moved to the side, the right foot brought up beside it, and the honour paid (two bars, i.e., four bars in all).

THE SIDE.

This is performed by two dancers, usually partners, but not necessarily so. They face each other, and move forward a double obliquely to the right, i.e., passing by the left. On the third step they make a half-turn counter-clockwise, completing the turn on the fourth step as they face one another (two bars). This completes the first half of the movement, and is called side to the right. In the second half of the movement, side to the left, the dancers retrace their steps along the same tracks, moving obliquely to the left (passing by the right), turn clockwise, and face each other on the fourth step. The whole movement occupies four bars of the music.

The dancers must remember to face each other at the beginning and close of each movement, to pass close to each other, shoulder to shoulder, and always to face in the direction in which they are moving.

ARM WITH THE RIGHT (OR LEFT).

Two performers, usually partners, meet, link right (or left) arms, swing round a complete circle, clockwise (or counter-clockwise) (two bars), separate, and fall back to places (r.s.) (two bars, i.e., four bars in all).

In order that the dancers may give and receive mutual support in the execution of the whole turn, the arms, crooked at right angles, must be linked at the elbows, the dancers leaning slightly away from each other, so as to throw part of their weight on their arms.

THE FIGURES.

FIGURE 1.

HANDS-THREE, HANDS-FOUR, ETC.

Three or more dancers, as directed, form a ring, extend arms, join hands a little above waist-level, and dance round. In the absence of specific instructions to the contrary it is to be understood that one complete circuit is to be danced, clockwise, the performers facing centre.

The dancers should clasp hands firmly, lean outward, and thus support each other. When the movement is followed by a repetition in the reverse direction, counter-clockwise, the dancers may stamp on the first step of the second movement.

Occasionally this figure is performed with backs to the centre, the dancers facing outward.

When space is restricted and the ring reduced in size, and it is no longer feasible to extend the arms, the arms should be raised, sharply bent at the elbows (upper arms horizontal, fore-arms approximately vertical) and the hands joined above head-level. This, too, will be found to be the easier and more convenient method when the movement is slow and formal in character, as is not infrequently the case in back-rings.

FIGURE 2.

THE TURN.

Two dancers face one another, join both hands, swing once round clockwise (unless otherwise directed), separate, and fall back to places.

In turning, performers should clasp hands firmly, arms at full stretch, and lean back so as mutually to give and receive support. If either the skipping-step or running-step be used, the feet should be slightly crossed so that the dancers may face each other squarely throughout the movement.

FIGURE 3.

THE SWING.

This is similar to the preceding movement, the dancers however turning continuously and, on occasion, moving from place to place as directed.

THE TURN WITH RIGHT OR LEFT HAND.

Two dancers join right or left hands, as directed, and move round a complete circle, separate, and fall back to places.

The carriage of the dancers and the position of their arms will depend upon the size of the circle described and the speed with which the figure is executed. When eight steps are allotted to the figure the dancers should describe a large circle, lean slightly towards each other, and join hands above head-level. As the taking of hands in this case is for the purpose of balance rather than support, there is no pull on the arms and no necessity, therefore, to extend them at full stretch. The arms should, accordingly, be held loosely and slightly curved at the elbow (not bent at an angle). If, however, the Turn has to be completed in four steps, the arms should be fully extended and the hands joined a little above waist-level, the dancers leaning away from and supporting each other; while in still faster turns, where the dancers are compelled to turn in a very small circle (as in the Do-Si in the Running Set) they should join hands below waist-level with arms tense and sharply crooked at the elbow.

RIGHT- (OR LEFT-) HANDS-ACROSS.

This is performed usually by four dancers (say, the first and second couples in a longways dance), but occasionally by three or six.

In the first case, first man and second woman join right (or left) hands, while second man and first woman do the same. Holding their hands close together, head-level, the four dancers dance round clockwise (or counter-clockwise), inclining inwards towards the centre, and facing in the direction they are moving.

When three performers only are engaged, two of them join hands and the third places his hand on theirs.

It is to be understood that the dancers make one complete circuit unless specific instructions to the contrary are given.

FIGURE 6.
HALF-POUSSETTE.

This is performed by two adjacent couples.

Each man faces his partner and takes her by both hands. The arms must be held out straight, and very nearly shoulder high.

First man, pushing his partner before him, moves four steps along dotted line to a, and then falls back four steps along the line a b c into the second couple's place, pulling his partner after him.

Simultaneously, second man, pulling his partner with him, falls back four steps along unbroken line to d, and then moves forward four steps along the line d e f into the first couple's place (four bars).

The above movement is called the half-poussette, and is, of course, a progressive figure.

When the half-poussette is followed by a repetition of the same movement, each couple describing a complete circle or ellipse, the figure is called the whole-poussette.

FIGURE 7.

BACK-TO-BACK.

First man and first woman face each other and move forward, the man along the line a b, the woman along the dotted line d e. They pass by the right, move round each other, back to back, and fall back to places, the man along the line b c, the woman along the dotted line e f.

The arrow heads in the diagram show the positions of the dancers at the end of each bar, and point in the directions in which they are facing. The arrows alongside the lines show the direction in which the dancers move.

FIGURE 8.

WHOLE-GIP FACING CENTRE.

First man moves forward along line a, dances round circle b c d, facing the centre, and falls back along line d e to place; while first woman dances along dotted line m, moves round circle n o p, facing the centre, and falls back along dotted line p s to place (four bars). In the execution of the running-step the feet will have to be slightly crossed in order that the dancers may face each other squarely throughout the movement.

The arrows and arrow heads have the same signification as in the preceding figure.

FIGURE 9.

WHOLE-GIP FACING OUTWARD.

First man moves along line a and dances round circle b c d, facing outward to place; while first woman moves along dotted line m, dances round circle n o p, facing outward, and moves along dotted line p s to place (four bars).

THE HEY.

The Hey may be defined as the rhythmical interlacing in serpentine fashion of two groups of dancers, moving in single file and in opposite directions.

The figure assumes different forms according to the disposition of the dancers. These varieties, however, fall naturally into two main types according as the track described by the dancers—disregarding the deviations made by them in passing one another—is (1) a straight line, or (2) the perimeter of a closed figure, circle, or ellipse.

The second of these species, as the simpler of the two, will be first explained.

FIGURE 10.

THE CIRCULAR HEY.

In the analysis that follows the circle will, for the sake of convenience, be used throughout to represent the track described by the dancers in this form of the figure. In the round dance the track will of course be a true circle; while in the square dance it will become one as soon as the movement has begun. On the other hand, in a longways dance, the formation will be elliptical rather than circular, but this will not affect the validity of the following explanation.

In the circular-hey the dancers, who must be even in number, are stationed at equal distances around the circumference of a circle, facing alternately in opposite directions, thus:—

DIAGRAM 4.

Odd numbers face and move round clockwise; even numbers counter-clockwise. All move at the same rate and, upon meeting, pass alternately by the right and left.

This progression is shown in diagram 5, the dotted and unbroken lines indicating the tracks described respectively by odd and even numbers. It will be seen that in every circuit the two opposing groups of dancers, odd and even, thread through each other twice; that is, there will be eight simultaneous passings, or changes, as we will call them, in each complete circuit :—

DIAGRAM 5.

This movement is identical with that of the Grand Chain, except that in the familiar Lancers figure the performers take hands, alternately right and left, as they pass; whereas, in the Country Dance hey, “handing,” as Playford calls it, is the exception rather than the rule.

In this form the hey presents no difficulty. No misconception can arise so long as (1) the initial dispositions of the pairs, and (2) the duration of the movement, measured by circuits or changes, are clearly defined; and instructions on these two points will always be given in the notation. It should be understood that in the absence of directions to the contrary (1) the first pass is by the right, and (2) the dancers pass without handing.

FIGURE 11.

PROGRESSIVE CIRCULAR HEY.

Sometimes the hey is danced progressively, the dancers beginning and ending the movement pair by pair, instead of simultaneously, as above described. This is effected in the following way :—

The first change is performed by one pair only, say Nos. 1 and 2 (see diagram 4, Fig. 10); the second by two pairs, Nos. 1 and 3, and Nos. 2 and 8; the third in like manner by three pairs, and the fourth by four pairs. At the conclusion of the fourth change Nos. 1 and 2 will be face to face, each having traversed half a circuit, and all the dancers will be actively engaged, thus:—

DIAGRAM 6.

The movement now proceeds in the usual way. At the end of every complete circuit the position will be as follows:—

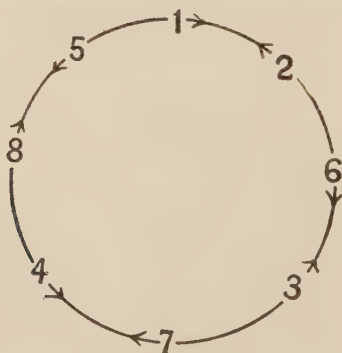

DIAGRAM 7.

The figure is concluded in the following manner:— Nos. 1 and 2, upon reaching their original places (see diagram 7), stop and remain neutral for the rest of the movement. The others continue dancing until they reach their proper places, when they, in like manner, stop and become neutral. This they will do, pair by pair, in the following order, Nos. 3 and 8, 4 and 7, 5 and 6. The initial and final movements thus occupy the same time, i.e., four changes.

Whenever the progressive hey occurs (1) the initial pair will be named; and (2) the duration of the movement, measured by changes or circuits, will be given in the notation.

FIGURE 12.

THE STRAIGHT HEY.

The dancers stand in a straight line at equi-distant stations, alternately facing up and down, thus:—

DIAGRAM 8.

Odd numbers face down; even numbers up. As in the circular hey the dancers move at an even rate, and pass each other alternately by the right and left. The movement is shown in diagram 9, the dotted and unbroken lines indicating, respectively, the upward and downward tracks described by the dancers:—

DIAGRAM 9.

It will be seen that the dancers after making the last pass at either end make a whole-turn—bearing to the right if the last pass was by the right, or to the left if the last pass was by the left—and re-enter the line, now in reverse direction, the first pass after re-entrance being by the same shoulder, right or left, as the preceding one.

When the Straight-hey is performed by three dancers only, we have the form in which the hey occurs most frequently in the Country Dance. On this account it will perhaps be advisable to describe this particular case in detail.

THE STRAIGHT HEY-FOR-THREE.

DIAGRAM 10.

No. 1 faces down, Nos. 2 and 3 up.

All simultaneously describe the figure eight, as shown in the above diagram, and return to places, passing along the unbroken line as they move down, and along the dotted line as they move up. At the beginning of the movement, therefore, No. 1 will dance along a b, No. 2 along d c, and No. 3 along g e, i.e., Nos. 1 and 2 will pass by the right, Nos. 1 and 3 by the left.

In order that the dancers may not obstruct one another the two lobes of the figure should be made as broad as time and space will permit.

This is presumably the correct way in which the hey-for-three should be executed in the Country Dance, although we have no direct evidence that it was in fact so danced in Playford's day. Hogarth, however, in his Analysis of Beauty (1753), after defining the hey as "a cypher of S's, a number of serpentine lines interlacing and intervolving one another," prints a diagram of the hey-for-three which, although it might have been clearer, seems to show that the way the figure was danced at that period was substantially the same as that described above.

Moreover, Wilson (The Analysis of Country Dancing, 1811) also describes the figure and prints a diagram, of which the following—except that for clearness' sake the tracks are differentiated by means of varied lines—is a faithful reproduction:—

No. 1 moves along the broken line a; No. 2 along the line b; and No. 3 along the dotted line c.

Except that the two half-heys are inverted—the two lower dancers beginning the movement and passing by the left—the method shown in the diagram is precisely the same as that we have above described.

The straight-hey may be performed progressively. It is unnecessary, however, to describe in detail the way in which this is effected, because, in principle, the method is the same as that already explained in Fig. 11.

Playford makes frequent use of the expressions "Single Hey" and "Double Hey." It is difficult to say with certainty what he means by these terms, because he uses them very loosely. Very often they are identical with what we have called the straight- and circular-hey. As, however, this is not always the case, I have, with some reluctance, substituted the terms used above, which are self-explanatory and free from ambiguity.

The figures above described are the commonplaces of the Country Dance, and are to be found, one or other of them, in pretty nearly every dance. The rest—and they are infinite in number and variety—are described in the notations as they occur.

THE TECHNIQUE OF FIGURE-DANCING.

The first requisite of the figure dancer, as has been already pointed out, is the capacity to move hither and thither, freely and easily, with complete control over direction and speed. Having attained this power he must then learn (1) to “time” his movements accurately; (2) to phrase them in accord with the music; (3) to blend them into one continuous movement without halts or hesitations; and (4) to execute them in concert with his fellow-dancers.

Timing.—As the movements and the figures of the dance are but the translation, in terms of bodily action, of the music which accompanies them, the dancer when learning a dance should first of all listen carefully to the tune, and, if possible, memorise it. In particular he should note the number and relative lengths of its several phrases and calculate the number of steps that can be danced to each of them (two in every bar in duple, and three in triple-measure).

In the description of the dances given in the notation it will be found that a definite number of bars, and therefore of steps, is allotted to every figure and to every part of every figure, and it is by this system of measurement by step that the dancers “time” their movements with the music. Every dancer, therefore, must always have in mind not only the form and the shape of the figure he is executing, but the number of steps apportioned to the figure as a whole and to each subsidiary section of which that figure is compounded. So long, however, as he "times" his movements correctly and arrives at his appointed station at the end of each section of the figure, it is for him to determine the precise manner in which he shall distribute his steps in relation to the track or course described. He may, for instance, enlarge his track by taking larger steps, or restrict it by taking shorter ones. In the Gip, for example, the size of the circle described by the two dancers is immaterial so long as, by regulating their speed, they succeed in completing the circuit and regaining their original stations in the prescribed number of steps. When pressed for time the dancer may find it helpful to anticipate a movement, i.e., to start it a beat or so in advance; or per contra when he has time in hand, to delay it by taking one or more preliminary "balance-steps" before getting under way. Devices of this kind should, of course, be employed sparingly and never without good reason, as, for example, in the cases above cited, to avoid unseemly scurrying on the one hand or a premature conclusion on the other.

Phrasing.—It is just as necessary for the dancer to phrase his steps and movements as it is for the musician to phrase his notes and strains, or for the writer to punctuate his sentences. The purpose in each case is the same—to define and make intelligible what would otherwise be ambiguous or meaningless. A series of equally accented dance-steps, musical sounds, or verbal syllables, conveys no meaning until by the periodic recurrence of stronger accents the steps, sounds, or words, are separated into groups, co-ordinated, and some sort of relationship established between them.

The writer indicates these groups and their relative values by punctuation; the speaker by pauses, emphasis of particular words, and by the rise and fall of his voice; the musician by slurs or phrases, which define the positions of the rhythmical accents; while the dancer groups his steps in correspondence with the rhythmic phrases of the accompanying music. The dancer, like the musician, must be careful to distinguish between the metrical accents (i.e., the accents or beats within the bar) and the rhythmical accents (of which the bar itself is the unit), the former corresponding to the "foot" in prosody, the latter to the "verse."

Technically, the dancer phrases his movements by gradating the accents which he imparts to his steps, giving the strongest accent to the first step of a group and the weakest to the last. The strength of the step accent depends partly upon foot-spring, but mainly upon body-balance. In a stationary figure like the turn-single, the step-accent is determined solely by the height and energy of the springs with which the steps are made. When, however, the dancer is in motion, the accent of the step depends less upon the strength of the spring forward than upon the momentum generated and controlled by the inclination of the body in the direction of motion. Before beginning a movement from rest, therefore, the dancer should throw his weight on to one foot and adjust the inclination of his body so that the first step of his phrase, which is always the most important, as it is also the strongest, may be made with the requisite emphasis.

The dancer must never make any movement in the dance, however insignificant, that is not phrased, i.e., executed rhythmically in accord with the music. This injunction must be held to apply as much to arm-movements as to steps. For instance, in giving or taking a hand, he should begin the movement in plenty of time—two or three beats beforehand—and raise and move the arm in rhythm with the music.

Continuity.—The directions given in the notation are divided into Parts, figures, etc., only for the sake of clearness of description. The aim of the dancer should be to conceal, not to call attention to these divisions. In learning a dance it will probably be necessary to dissect its movements, to parse, so to speak, each component section; but in the finished dance these subordinate elements must be pieced together and merged into one continuous movement as complete and organic in structure as the movements of a symphony.

To this end the dancer must think ahead, perceive the relation between that which he is at the moment doing with that which is to follow, so that he may give to the concluding cadence of each subsidiary phrase its just degree of emphasis, and pass on without hesitation to the movement that follows. If he fails in this, his movements will be spasmodic, his phrases isolated and unrelated, and his performance as a whole as unintelligible and difficult to follow as reading aloud by a child who spells out and pronounces with equal emphasis each word as he proceeds.

Concerted movement.—The performer in a concerted dance has not only to consider his own individual movements, but to relate them to those of his companions in the dance. The expert figure-dancer is probably far more conscious of the movements of his fellow-dancers than of his own; indeed, his pleasure, as well as theirs, depends very largely upon the completeness with which he effaces his own personality and loses himself in the dance.

Although the continuous and accurate adjustment of position by the dancer in a figure-dance is of first-rate importance, it is quite possible to exaggerate it, and by paying too much attention to precision of line and symmetry of figure, to stiffen and formalize the movements, and to give to the dance the appearance of a military drill. The ideal is to steer a middle course. To this end the following general directions will be found useful :--

In line formation each dancer should adjust his position in relation to the dancer on either side. In dual movements, e.g., the Side, Arms, Back-to-back, etc., the distances traversed by each performer should be approximately equal. In the heys—especially the straight-hey-for-three—and the Gip, the performers should describe identically the same track. In the forming of rings the dancers should extend their arms and move round in a circle, edging towards the centre until they are near enough to link hands with the dancers on either side.

STYLE.

The foregoing explanations will, it is hoped, enable the reader to interpret the figures described in the notations that are presently to follow. The dancer should, however, be reminded that technical proficiency has no value except as an aid to artistic expression, and indeed, if it be not so used, the dance will never rise above the level of a physical exercise.

Although in the nature of things it is impossible to instruct the dancer how he may impart æsthetic significance to his physical movements, there are nevertheless certain general considerations to which his attention may profitably be directed. He can, for instance, turn his attention to Style, the cultivation of which will carry him a few steps at any rate along the right road. By style we do not mean polish, i.e., perfected physical movement, but rather the air, the manner with which physical movements are executed. It is partly individual, the expression—that is, voluntary or involuntary—of the dancer's personality, and partly derived from the character of the dance itself.

Although the personal factor is inherent in every human action, and can never, therefore, be entirely eliminated therefrom, it may be, and often is, suppressed to the point where it becomes unconscious, as in walking and other common activities and habits. Now the folk-dance, owing to its corporate, unconscious origin, is essentially an impersonal dance, a unique instrument for the expression of those ideas and emotions that are held and felt collectively, but peculiarly unfitted for the exploitation of personal idiosyncrasies. The folk-dance, therefore, is emphatically not the place for the display of those self-conscious airs and graces, fanciful posings and so forth, that play so large a part in dances of a more conventional order.

The dancer must therefore put these aside and seek elsewhere for material upon which to mould his style, and this he will find in the character of the dance itself. He should note that the Country Dance is less strenuous, less stern, and less detached than the Morris; less involved and less intense than the Sword Dance; but freer, jollier, more intimate, and, in a sense, more human than either—perhaps because it is the only one of the three in which both sexes take part. It is a mannered dance, gentle and gracious, formal in a simple, straightforward way, but above all gay and sociable. The spirit of merriment, however, although never wholly absent from the dance, is not always equally obvious. There are certain dances that are comparatively quiet and subdued in style, in which the normal gaiety is toned down to a decorous suavity; while between dances of this kind and those of the more light-hearted variety, there are many that are emotionally intermediate in type. It should be the aim of the dancer to feel these temperamental differences, and reflect them in his manner and style.

The clue to these emotional variations he will, of course, find in the accompanying music. The dance is but the interpretation or translation, in terms of bodily action, of the music upon which it is woven, just as the melody of the song is primarily the expression of the text. Music moreover is the predominant partner of the union; there can be no dance without music. This intimate relationship between the music and the dance and, in a sense, the subservience of the latter to the former, must always be present to the mind of the dancer. Not only must his rhythms accord with those of the music, as has already been pointed out, but his style, the character that he gives to his movements, must also be in harmony with the character of the music.

The application of this principle, viz., the subordination of the dance to the music, is imperative, especially in the case of the dances in the present volume. For the Playford dances, despite the number and variety of their figures, are very persistent in type, and were it not for the wide range of the emotional content of the tunes it would be difficult to give to them the necessary variety of treatment.

It should be added that any spectacular qualities that the Country Dance may possess are fortuitous, or, rather, the inevitable outcome of the perfect fashioning of means to end. Its beauty, being implicit, needs, therefore, no artificial embellishment. An elaborate theatrical setting would be as irrelevant and impertinent as for the dancers to deck themselves in rich and fanciful costumes. All that the dancers need is plenty of space, an even, non-slippery floor, and dresses which will allow to the body and limbs complete freedom of action.

NOTATION.

CATCHING OF QUAILS.

Round for eight ; in three parts (4th Ed. 1670).

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
FIRST PART.
A 1—8	Hands-all, eight slips clockwise, and eight slips counter-clockwise to places.
B1 1—2	First man moves in front of his partner, and faces her (r.s.).
3—4	First man moves back a double into the centre, followed by his partner (r.s.).
5—8	Second couple does the same.
B2 1—4	Third couple does the same.
5—8	Fourth couple does the same.
	All the men are now in the middle, facing their partners.

CATCHING OF QUAILS—continued.

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
SECOND PART.
A 1—4	Partners side (r.s.).
5—8	That again.
B1 1—2	First man shakes his partner by the right hand three times, on the first and middle beats of the first bar, and on the first beat of the second bar.
3—4	First man turns his partner half-way round with his right hand, and changes places with her.
5—8	Second couple does the same.
B2 1—4	Third couple does the same.
5—8	Fourth couple does the same. All the women are now in the middle, facing their partners.
THIRD PART.
A 1—4	Partners arm with the right.
5—8	Partners arm with the left.
B1 1—2	First man taps his partner's right foot with his right foot three times, on the first and middle beats of the first bar, and on the first beat of the second bar.
3—4	First woman moves out into her original place (r.s.).
5—8	Second couple does the same.
B2 1—4	Third couple does the same.
5—8	Fourth couple does the same.

IF ALL THE WORLD WERE PAPER.

Round for eight ; in three parts (1st Ed. 1650).

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
	Running-Step throughout the Dance.
	FIRST PART.
A1 1—4	All take hands, move forward a double, and fall back a double to places.
	5—8 Partners set and turn single.
A2 1—8	All that again.
A3 1—2	First and third men change places.
	3—4 First and third women change places.
	5—8 First and third couples circular-hey to places, two changes, partners facing each other.
A4 1—8	Second and fourth couples do the same.

SECOND PART.
A1 1—4	Partners side.
	5—8 Partners set and turn single.
A2 1—8	All that again.
A3 1—2	First and third couples move forward a double and meet.
	3—4 First man leads third woman between second man and second woman ; while third man leads first woman between fourth man and fourth woman.
	5—6 All four cast off to their respective places.
	7—8 First and third men turn their partners.
A4 1—8	Second and fourth couples do the same.
THIRD PART.
A1 1—4	Partners arm with the right.
	5—8 Partners set and turn single.
A2 1—4	Partners arm with the left.
	5—8 Partners set and turn single.
A3 1—2	First man and third woman change places ; while first woman and third man do the same.
	3—4 First and third men change places with their partners.
	5—8 Circular-hey, handing, to places ; two changes, each man facing the contrary woman.
A4 1—8	Second and fourth couples do the same.

UP TAILS ALL.

Round for as many as will ; in four parts (1st Ed., 1650).

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
FIRST PART.
A1 1—4	All take hands, move forward a double, and fall back a double to places (r.s.).
	5—8 Partners set and turn single.
A2 1—8	All that again.
SECOND PART.
A1 1—4	First man and first woman lead between second man and second woman, separate, cast off, and meet each other in front of second couple (r.s.).
5—8	First man and first woman clap hands, arm with the right, pass on, and face third couple. This movement is repeated until the first couple has passed all the other couples. The second couple then does the same ; then the third, and so on.

UP TAILS ALL—continued.

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
THIRD PART.
A1 1—4	As in Second Part.
5—8	First and second couples clap hands and right hands-across, first couple passing on to third couple. Movement repeated as in Second Part.
FOURTH PART.
A1 1—4	As in Second Part.
5—8	First and second couples clap hands and hands-four, first couple passing on to third couple. Movement repeated as in Second Part.
Parts 2, 3 and 4 may be done progressively by all the couples in the usual way (duple minor-set), the first couple's place being treated as the top place of a longways dance, and the last couple's place as the bottom.

WINIFRED'S KNOT, OR OPEN THE DOOR TO THREE.

Round for as many as will ; in three parts (2nd Ed. 1652).

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
FIRST PART.
A1 1—4 5—6	Hands-all, eight slips clockwise. All turn single.
A2 1—4 5—6	Hands-all, eight slips counter-clockwise to places. All turn single.
A3 (repeated as many times as there are couples)
1—4	Men move forward a double, meet, and fall back a double to places (r.s.).

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
FIRST PART— contd.
5—6	Each man passes outside the woman on his left, and moves into the next man's place (r.s.). These two movements are repeated until the men have returned to their places.
A4 (repeated as many times as there are couples)
1—4	Women move forward a double, meet, and fall back a double to places (r.s.).
5—6	Each woman passes outside the man on her right, and moves into the next woman's place (r.s.). These two movements are repeated until the women have returned to their places.

A2 1—6	All that again.
A3 1—6	Same as in A4 (First Part).
A4 1—6	Same as in A3 (First Part).
THIRD PART.
A1 1—4	Partners arm with the right.
5—6	All turn single.
A2 1—4	Partners arm with the left.
5—6	All turn single.
A3 1—6	As in A3, First Part.
A4 1—6	As in A4, First Part.

CHELSEA REACH.

Square for eight; in three parts (3rd Ed., 1665).

MUSIC	MOVEMENTS.
FIRST PART.*
A1 1—4	All move forward a double and fall back a double to places (r.s.).
5—8	Partners set-and-honour (Fig. 3, p. 11).
B1 1—4	All face outward. Partners lead out a double, and fall back a double to places (r.s.).
5—8	Partners set-and-honour.
A2 1—2	Second and fourth couples meet and stand back-to-back (r.s.). Simultaneously, first man and first woman change places, move forward and come face to face, respectively, with fourth man and second woman (sk.s.); while third man and third woman do the same and face, respectively, second man and fourth woman.

* See note at end of dance

CHELSEA REACH—continued.

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
3—4	Second couple, first woman and third man hands-four, half-way round; while the other four do the same.
Bar 5	Second and fourth men give right hands to their partners and change places with them; while first man does the same with third woman, and third man with first woman (sk.s.).
6—8	First and fourth men turn with the left hand, and move back to their original places; while second and third men, first and second women, and third and fourth women do the same (sk.s.).
B2 1—8	Same movement as in A2, first and third couples meeting in the middle.
SECOND PART.
A1 1—4	Partners side (r.s.).
5—8	Partners set-and-honour.
B1 1—8	All that again.
A2 1—2	Each man takes his partner by both hands and pushes her backward into the middle (r.s.).
3—4	Partners change places (r.s.).
5—8	Partners change places. The women right-hands-across half-way round; while the men dance half-way round, counter-clockwise, outside them (sk.s.).
	The couples are now in opposite places.
B2 1—8	The movement continued as in A2 to places, the women setting the men in the middle, the men giving left-hands-across, and the women dancing round, clockwise, outside them.

A2 1—4	Each man, taking the woman on his left by the left hand, leads out a double, changes hands and leads back a double (r.s.).
5—8	Circular-hey with hands (Fig. 10, p. 25), half-way round, each man giving his right hand to the woman on his left (sk.s.). Each man is now face to face with the woman he led out.
B2 1—8	Same as A2 to places.

Playford's description of the First Part is so obscure, that the editors would probably have omitted the dance altogether, had it not been such an interesting and beautiful one. The interpretation given above depends on the supposition (paralleled only in "Fain I Would") that the women throughout the dance stand on the left of their partners; this peculiarity has not been preserved in the text, as it makes no difference to the form of the dance, and would merely perplex the performers. There is a further difficulty in that the figures do not properly fit the music; this has been obviated by omitting one of the movements (a "turn") given by Playford.

Under these circumstances the editors make no claim to have found a final solution. The following interpretation, which is put forward as

FAIN I WOULD.

Square for eight ; in three parts (1st Ed. 1650).

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
FIRST PART.
A1 1—4	Partners lead out a double, change hands, and lead in to places (r.s.).
5—6	Each man takes the woman on his left by both hands, and changes places with her.
7—8	First man and first woman, third man and third woman, second man and fourth woman, and second woman and fourth man, change places in like manner.
A2 1—4	Each man leads out the woman on his right a double, changes hands and leads in a double (r.s.).

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
FIRST PART— contd.
5—8	Same as in A1.
B1 1—2	First and third couples move forward and meet (r.s.)
3—4	First couple with fourth man and second woman take hands and fall back a double; while the other four do likewise (r.s.).
5—8	First man and third woman arm with the right and fall into the second place, third man and first woman doing the same and falling into the fourth place; while fourth man and second woman arm on the outside and fall into the first place, second man and fourth woman doing the same and falling into the third place.
B2 1—8	All the women are now on the left of the men. Same movements as in B1, second man and fourth woman meeting fourth man and second woman in the middle, and all arming with the left.
All are now in their original places.
SECOND PART.
A1 1—4	Partners side (r.s.).
5—8	Same as in A1, First Part.
A2 1—4	Each man sides with the woman on his right (r.s.).
5—8	Same as in A1, First Part.

FAIN I WOULD—continued.

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
SECOND PART— contd.
B1 1—4	First man turns out to his right and, followed by second woman, returns to his place; while third man, followed by fourth woman, does the same. 5—8	First couple with fourth man and second woman hands-four; while the other four do the same.
B2 1—4	Second man turns out to his right and, followed by third woman, returns to his place; while fourth man, followed by first woman, does the same. Simultaneously, second woman turns out to her left and, followed by first man, returns to her place; while fourth woman, followed by third man, does the same (r.s.).
5—8	Second couple with first man and third woman hands-four; while the other four do the same.

FAIN I WOULD—continued.

MUSIC.	MOVEMENTS.
THIRD PART.
A1 1—4	Partners arm with the right.
5—8	Same as in A1, First Part.
A2 1—4	Each man arms with the left the woman on his right.
5—8	Same as in A1, First Part.
B1 1—2	First and third couples move forward and meet (r.s.).
3—8	First and third couples hands-four, facing outward, once round, clockwise. Simultaneously, second and fourth couples hands-four round them, counter-clockwise. First man and third woman fall into the second place, third man and first woman into the fourth place, fourth man and second woman into the first place, and second man and fourth woman into the third place. The women are now on the left of the men.
B2 1—8	Same movement as in B1, fourth man and second woman meeting second man and fourth woman in the middle. All are now in their original places.

In this dance Playford directs that the women shall stand on the left of their partners. For simplicity's sake this unusual disposition has not been adhered to in the text, the alteration making no difference to the form of the dance
